

Imagine you heard a clock strike 13! Imagine you could time travel like Tom did. Would you prefer to travel into the past or the future of your life? What would life be like for you, the events around you? How would you feel if watching or 'meeting' yourself at that stage of your life?