

Who are the people/characters in your story?

How did you come to be in possession of a time machine?

Whereabouts in time did you travel to? Why - was this your choice or did something else cause you to go there?

What was it like there?

Who was there? Why were they there? How did they feel about you? How did you feel about them?

What went wrong? What problems did you encounter? Did the time machine work properly?

Who - or what - helped you? How did they help you?

How did you return to your own time? Was it the same - or had it changed?

Write down some technical scientific words you can use in your story. For example:

flux capacitor (I nicked that one off 'Back to the Future').

quantum oscillator

neutron resonation connector

positronic defragmentation field generator

See how many you can invent. Don't forget to describe them when you put them in your story.
